CHAPTERS I, II, III AND V.

PHYSICAL ASPECTS, HISTORY, THE PEOPLE AND INDUSTRIES.

There is nothing important to add to the information under these heads contained in the corresponding chapters of the original gazetteer.

CHAPTER IV.

AGRICULTURE AND FORESTS.

Although the forests in Sylhet do not contain much ^{Afforestation} valuable timber, they are of great importance as _{of new tracts.} supplying building materials in the form of bamboo and thatching grass to a thickly-populated district. In the years 1898 and 1899 the Longai-Singla Reserve was disforested and thrown open for settlement. Owing to the increased demand for forest produce which must increase with an increased pressure of population on the soil, steps have lately been taken to re-afforest this area.

Mr. Sankey, I. C. S., was deputed in the cold weather of 1913-14 as Forest Settlement Officer to report what other areas in Sylhet should be constituted Forest Reserves and it is probable that as a result of his enquiries new reserves will be established in the Raghunandan, Rajkandi and Patharia Hills.

CHAPTER VI. -

ECONOMIC CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE.

Prices. Prices of the principal food staples, viz., rice, pulse and salt, up to February 1914, are given in Table IX in the latter portion of this volume. There was a sudden rise in the price of rice in 1906. In Sylhet town, the price rose from 17½ seers a rupee to 10 seers a rupee and there was a corresponding rise in all the other subdivisions. This rise, although considered to be abnormal at first, has remained fairly stationary. There was a perceptible fall in 1909 and 1910, but the price rose again in 1911, and the average quantity of common rice obtainable for a rupee during the last three years has been 9 or 10 seers a rupee, which is also the average price of the last 8 years, i.e., since the abnormal rise in 1906. The tendency during this period has been for the price to be higher in Karimganj, Habiganj and Maulvi Bazar subdivisions than in Sunamganj or North Sylhet. This is probably due to the greater facilities for transport by rail in the former three subdivisions and also to the existence of a considerable garden population in them.

There has also been a distinct rise in the price of matikalai since 1907. The average price up to 1905 was 13 seers a rupee. There was a slight rise in 1906, but in 1907 the price rose to about 10 seers a rupee and the fluctuations since then have been between 7 to 11 seers a rupee. The average price since 1907 has been 9 or 10 seers a rupee.

The price of salt has fallen appreciably since 1905 owing to the reduction of duty. The quantity procurable for a rupee rose from 12 to 13 seers in 1905 to about 20 seers in 1909 and 1910. Since then there has been a slight rise in price, and salt now generally sells at 13 or 17 seers a rupee.

The prices of milk and fish have also risen considerably during the last decade. Fish now costs more than twice as much as it did ten or twelve years ago. The increased export of fish by rail is probably one of the causes of the rise in price. In the case of milk the usual price now is two and a half to four annas a seer as compared with one to two annas a seer ten years ago.

With the rise in the prices of food stuffs, wages have also increased appreciably. The wage of an ordinary labourer now is four annas a day. Ordinary 'kamla' (house-builders) charge from five to six annas a day, and experts will not work for less than seven or eight annas a day. House-hold servants are paid from Rs. 4 to Rs. 5 a month with board and clothing, and agricultural servants charge up to Rs. 6 or Rs. 7 a month. Reapers generally earn from eight to ten annas a day. Load-carriers charge from eight annas to twelve annas and sometimes as much as one rupee a day in the mafassil, often in addition to one meal. In towns they earn from 12 annas to Re. 1 a day. Palki-bearers charge from Re. 1 to Rs. 2 a day. Diggers, who are called matikata coolies and are mostly Mubammadans, charge from six to eight annas a day.

Wages.

The difficulty of obtaining servants and ordinary labourers has increased greatly of late years, as the rise in the price of agricultural produce has enabled most of the people of this class to earn their living by agriculture. Many people of this class from the Karimganj, North Sylhet and South Sylhet subdivisions have settled in Cachar where lands are more readily available, and have taken to cultivation.

Until 1912 the nearest railway station to Sylhet town was Kulaura at a distance of 35 miles. It had long been a subject of constant complaints that the headquarters station of this important district was so difficult to reach, but the opening of a branch line of the Assam-Bengal Railway in 1912 from Kulaura to Fenchuganj brought the railway 20 miles nearer Sylhet. In the cold weather of 1912, work was commenced on the extension from Fenchuganj to Sylhet, and the railway embankment has since been practically completed. Unless fresh difficulties are experienced in constructing the big bridge over the Kusiara river at Fenchuganj, it is anticipated that through trains will be running from Sylhet to Kulaura junction on the main line of the Assam-Bengal Railway in or about June 1915. The extension of the Sylhet branch to Tharriaghata at the foot of the Khasi Hills is now under consideration and a survey was carried out during last cold weather (1913-14). Although owing to the low-lying nature of the country and the number of rivers to be crossed, the cost of construction will be high, there is little doubt that in view of the rich coal-mines and lime-quarries which will be served by this line, the project should eventually be commercially a success.

The Dwara-Theria Light Railway, which belongs to the Khasi Hills Company and runs a distance of 13 miles from Ishamati at the foot of the Khasi Hills to Dwara on the Surma river, has lately been completed and is carrying a large amount of lime.

Several schemes for connecting by feeder railways Karimganj town with the extensive tea gardens in the south of the Karimganj subdivision are now under consideration and it is to be hoped that in a few years' time it will be possible to travel by train from Karimganj to both the Longai Valley and the Chargola Valley.

Roads.

The most important road now under construction in the district is the road being made by the Public Works Department from Kanai Bazar (16 miles from Karimganj on the Karimganj-Patharkandi road) to Ratabari in the Chargola Valley, a distance of some eight miles. Some low hills still have to be cut through, but it is hoped that by May 1915 there will be at last a road fit for wheeled traffic leading into the Chargola Valley.

Since the re-constitution of the province of Assam in 1912, the five Local Boards of Sylhet have received from the Assam Administration generous grants for the improvement of communications. Each Board between 1912 and 1915 is receiving no less than 14 lakhs for this purpose. The Sunamganj Board has devoted its grant to raising above flood-level the main road which connects Sylhet town viz Gobindganj in North Sylhet with Sunamganj town, and which runs through a very low-lying tract. The other four Boards, which are already in possession of many good roads, have wisely decided to substitute permanent bridges for the temporary bamboo or long bridges which are so easily broken down by storms and also by buffaloes and cattle. There is no doubt that this substitution of permanent for temporary bridges will greatly improve the general condition of communications in the district as a whole.

In addition to the steamer traffic mentioned on River traffic, page 183 of Mr. Allen's Gazetteer, a feeder steamer plies on alternate days during the rains from Badarpurghat to Sylhet. This is a most convenient service, but unfortunately owing to want of water it can only run for some three or four months in the year. Until November, 1913, steamers in the dry season did not go up the Surma river beyond Chhatak. The steamers now run up to Peterganj (generally called Badaghat) on the Chengar khal. Peterganj is connected by a metalled road 7 miles long with Sylhet town, and Messrs. Kiiburn & Co., Agents of the India General Steam Navigation Company, have lately started on this road a passenger motor car service which has proved a great convenience to travellers.

For more than half the year travelling by boat is the most convenient method of communication in the Sylhet district, and it is probable that in many parts of the district money could be spent more profitably on deepening water-channels than in constructing new fairweather roads which are expensive to maintain and which are inundated in the rains.

CHAPTER II.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION.

Re-settlement From the time of the Hastabodh survey (1788 to 1790) a certain establishment of patwaris was maintained in every pargana. These patwaris held lands free of revenue in lieu of salary, and these lands were small and designated nankar patwarigiri. Immediately after the close of the decennial settlement the pargana patwaris submitted statements of nankar patwarigiri and other similar lands such as mandatmas, cheragi, etc. The pargana patwaris continued to enjoy the nankar lands free of revenue up to 1831. These lands were however resumed by Government on the abolition of the patwari establishment by order of the Sudder Board of Revenue in 1835, and were brought under assessment. The first settlement was made in the course of the two following years, the lands being invariably settled with the pargana patwaris who were at that time in possession. The nankar estates of which there were 1,271 in all, underwent five successive settlements for varying terms from 1836 to 1878. The term of the last settlement having expired in 1903-07, these estates have now been re-settled for a period of 8 years from 1914-15 to 1921-22, the term expiring with that of the general Ilam Settlement of the district. The following statement shows the various classes of estates with the number of each which were included in this re-settlement. The total area of all the estates amounted to 27.16 square milcs.

(1) Nankar Patwarigiri	...	1,271
(2) Charthar or alluvial accretions	...	806
(3) Khas Miyadi	...	387
(4) Buje-afti	...	114
(5) Izad	...	66
(6) Ordinary Ilam	...	6
Total	...	2,450

In the previous settlements each estate was dealt with on its own merits. In the re-settlement at present in force however, the ilmam classification and rates sanctioned by Government have been applied. This has resulted in an increase in the revenue demand from Rs. 15,125 to Rs. 21,229.

There does not at present exist any register of permanently-settled estates showing the names of the existing proprietors and landholders with the areas and boundaries of their estates, and such a register cannot be prepared without a proper cadastral survey of the district. In order to ascertain the cost of settlement operations and to find out what difficulties would have to be encountered in connection with this work, it has been decided to undertake the cadastral survey and the preparation of a record-of-rights and a general register of all the permanently-settled estates in an experimental block of 95 square miles included within the parganas Dakshinkach, Baraiya and Renga. The work will be commenced during the cold weather of 1914-15, and the question of extending the settlement operations throughout the district will depend on the success of the experiment in the selected area.

The excisable articles which are chiefly consumed in this district are ganja and country spirit. In marked contrast to the Assam Valley Districts, the consumption of opium is comparatively insignificant. The total excise revenue for the district has risen from Rs. 2,69,792 in 1904-05 to Rs. 4,72,226 in 1913-14.

The revenue under this head rose from Rs. 1,32,707 in 1904-05 to Rs. 2,26,993 in 1913-14. During the same period however, consumption has increased only from 268 maunds to 286 maunds. A uniform rate of duty at Rs. 11 per seer was fixed in 1906-07, and this has since been gradually raised to Rs. 16 a seer. During the last decade the number of shops has been reduced from 99 to 70. The drug is consumed by all classes of Indians in the district, but chiefly by low class Muhammadans and Hindus and by tea-garden coolies.

Country spirit.

In 1908 the old outstill system was replaced by the contract supply system, the liquor being imported from the distillery at Jorhat. Two spirit depots were established at Srimangal and Chhatak in this district; but the subdivision of Karimganj receives almost all its supply from the Silchar depôt. The quantity of liquor consumed during the 10 months June 1908 to March 1909 was 19,098 L.P. gallons. Consumption has since steadily increased and in 1913-14 it stood at 43,208 L.P. gallons. This increase is chiefly attributable to the growth of the immigrant population. The increase has been shared by all the subdivisions, but is most marked in South Sylhet, Karimganj and Habiganj. The rise in the retail price consequent on the introduction of the distillery system gave an impetus to smuggling into the district from across the borders of Hill Tippera and the Khasi Hills. The posting of three patrol parties on the borders of the subdivisions of South Sylhet, Karimganj and Habiganj and the restrictive measures adopted by the authorities of the Khasi Hills have however considerably checked this abuse. Both from a moral and financial point of view the introduction of the contract supply system has been a great success. It is generally admitted that there is now much less drunkenness among the tea-garden coolies who are the chief consumers. Country spirit yielded Rs. 1,10,615 in 1904-05, and last year 1913-14 it brought in Rs. 2,12,840. The number of shops has during the same period been cut down from 48 to 89.

Education

The progress of Education during the last eight or ten years has shown a most marked advance, both as regards the number of schools, the character of the instruction given, and the number of pupils. The number of schools and colleges of all classes has increased from 771 in 1904-05 to 1,131 in 1911-12. During the same period the number of pupils increased from 32,000 to 60,000.

There is still only one college in the district, the Murarichand College in the town of Sylhet. Originally an unaided second-grade college, it was taken under State management in 1912, and a scheme has recently been sanctioned by the Secretary of State for raising it to a first-grade college. The number of pupils attending it in 1911-12 was 98. Collegiate education.

Under this head are included High and Middle schools. There are now in all seven High schools, of which four (at Sylhet, Karimganj, Habiganj and Maulvi Bazar) are managed by the State, two (at Sunamganj and Banyachang) are State-aided, and one (the Raja Girish Chandra High School at Sylhet) is unaided. A list of the Middle English and Middle Vernacular schools in the district will be found in Statement D in the Appendix of this volume. Secondary education.

Under this head are included Upper and Lower Primary schools. Of the former there are now only 13 in the district as compared with 33 in 1904-05. This type of school has not proved successful and is being gradually abolished, many of the pupils finding their way to Middle English schools. On the other hand the number of Lower Primary schools has increased from 666 in 1904-05 to nearly 1,200 at the present time. The number of pupils reading in them has also more than doubled in the same period and is now about 56,000. Primary education.

In addition to the secondary and the primary schools described above there are tols and madrasahs for the teaching of the Oriental Classics. The newly-started Junior Government Madrasah in Sylhet has been much appreciated by the Muhammadan public. The village tols and madrasahs which conform to the courses prescribed by Government are entitled to earn scholarships for the pupils and rewards or stipends for the teachers on Tols and Madrasahs.

the results of the departmental examinations. To some tols or madrasahs grants are given for secular teaching, i.e., for teaching the Lower Primary course, in addition to the classical subjects, but such schools are not allowed to earn the scholarships and stipends referred to above.
